SIP Print has expanded into the UK market, announcing the availability of its SIP-based VoIP call recording platform for the UK financial services market.

The systems are fully compliant with the Financial Services Authority's (FSA's) call recording mandate.

They also meet the future requirement to record calls originating from mobile phones.

From 6 March, the FSA requires all UK financial institutions involved in the equity, bond and derivatives markets, to record and archive telephone conversations and electronic communications relating to client transactions, for a minimum period of six months.

Conversations from handheld devices are exempt from the ruling for 18-months.

Last month SIP Print's call recording system was selected to receive Internet Telephony Magazine's 2008 Product of the Year Award.
